BRIDGE WORK in dentistry requires a pecu-liar skill. To make a successful bridge that will be firm and serviceable as well as attractive in appearance requires as much deftness and craftsmanship as a JEWELER needs, in setting a DIA-MOND OR PEARL. remote power. As it is now, these powers, by declining, will compel the hoice to be to those who ought to have the privilege of mandatory agents. It would be a misstatement to say the Americans welcome the discussion of the colonial problems or desire to enter into such a discussion at these times. Remembering the traditional po-sition of the United States, our delegates felt not only that they should be onlookers, but the best idea would be to build the league of nations ma-chinery to take care of the problem. Yet, on the insistence of the British dominions, the question had to be dis-cussed, and instead of weakening the concert of powers, the fact is that an

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves, Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and sold by Washburn-Lyle in Memphis, and most all druggists, under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplossness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION—Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh. Bernstorff Barred.

Incidentally the American delegates do not befieve that former Ambassador Bernstorff will be chosen as the German delegate. If his name is proposed I am assured the American mission fully intends to make it clear that Bernstorff's signature to anything would be worthless. Germany is evidently discussing the league of nations enthusiastically, on the expectation that she will have its advantages soon. But unless economic and financial situation compels carlier action, Germany will be on probation a long time before the family of nations admits her to a place of equality.

The conference thus far has been smooth; indeed, the general spirit that prevailed in Paris is a marked change from what prevailed a month ago, when nervous impatelence as well as unfounded suspicion on the part of some European minds as to the nature of the man Wilson, and the expected opposition which some Americans believed certain to come from European statesmen, gave the whole situation the aspect of a mutual easiness.

coped for the league. Strength Develops. This arose from the fant that, until recently, the league in many quarters was resarded as supplementary and not fundamental to the present settlement. Indeed, some prominent persons doubted the efficacy of any league, though willing to do all they could to forward its development. The demonstration that a general principle could be drawn to care for so vexing a question not only bred confidence in the ability of democratic nations to solve any problems which might arise in respect to the colonies, but actually stimulated the colonies to a keener interest in the exact structure of the league than they had before. By overcoming the colonial difficulty, the league took on more prestige with the members of the delegation themselves. More and more it is being realized that the settlement with Germany is vital; the real task is to build a new international order to prevent a recurrence of world-wide war. As for Germany, the conference, in the last ten days, proved consilurively how little outside territory her people can expect to retain and how much she must forfeit as a result of the criminal caprice of the Hohensollerns. Whatever the discussion was about the colonies, no-body suggested that Germany should get them back. Some day when Germany is admitted to the league of nations, after a probationary period, sile will be able to obtain an equity in commercial opportunity with other international services of the fullest punishment possible, they realize, on the other hand, the necessity of giving sufficient stimulus to the German people to prevent a desperato plunge into Bolshevism. Germany is keeping in close touch with what is going on by reading all the wireless reports, as well as the continental newspapers, which contain practically every detail. She knows by this time that the peace conference is writing the tresty wherein her only part will be to affix the signature of her delegates and arrange the machinery to apply its provisions of the pact. In that far off day when France came to the assistance of America, America was fighting Great Britain and now she is linked as closely to Great Britain as she is to France. We see now how these apparently diverging lines of history are coming together. The nations which once stood in battle array against one another are now shoulder to shoulder fightless.

"It was a long time before we saw that and in the last four years something has happened that is unprecedented in the history of mankind. It is nothing less than this—that bodies of men on both sides of the sea and in all parts of the world have come to realize their comradeshin in freedom.

"France, in the meantime, as we have so often said, stood at the frontier of freedom. Her lines key along the very lines that divided the home of freedom from the home of military despotism. Here was the immediate peril. Here was the constant dread. Here was the most pressing necessity of preparation, and she had constantly to ask hereself this question, "If the blow falls, who will come to our assistance?"

World Aids Her.

World Aids Her.

"And the question was answered in the most unexpected way. Her allies came to her assistance but many more than her allies. The free people of the world came to her assistance.

"And in this way America paid her debt of gratitude to France by sending her sons to fight upon the soil of France. She did more. She assisted in drawing the forces of the world together in order that France might never again feel her isolation; in order that France might never feel that hers was a lonely peril and would never again have to ask the question who would come to her assistance.

"And not offly she, but the other nations of the world must do the like. They must be ready for any terrible incident of injustice. The thing is not inconceivable.

situation the aspect of a mutual easiness.

President Wilson has been found by his colleagues to be a practical negotiator, tenacious of principle but prompt in decision, ever ready with compromise in practical details. Undoubtedly President Wilson learned that Lloyd George, Clemenceau and Oriando were men with the same fundamental desire to see a better era come into the world, as he has, though not always as sanguine of the method of achievement of the common goal. On the whole, one finds that the same Frenchmen who a month ago were not especially pleased with the press reports of Wilson's coming to dictate to European statesmen, are now saying it would be a great mistake for Mr. Wilson to go home unless he returns goon to help continue the excellent progress made by the famous council of ten, which is really steering the course of the greatest international conference in the history of mankind. People Forgotten.

The rulers of the world have been thinking of the relations of governments and forgetting the relations of peoples. They have been thinking of the maneuvers of international dealings, when what they ought to have been thinking of of was the fortunes of men and women and the safety of home and the care they should take that their people should be happy because they were safe.

"They know that the only way to do this is to make it certain that the same thing will not always happen that has happoned this time, that there never shall be any doubt or waiting or surmise, but that whenever France or any free people is threatened the whole world will be ready to vindicate its liberty.

Raps Cause Surprise.

Publication here of brief accounts of the debate in the American senate of last Saturday opposing the alleged sending of American troops to police occupied portion of Turkey occasioned mach surprise in the American official quarters. In the first place the Republican senators evidently have been misinformed or they have been misinformed or they have been misinformed or they have been reading inaccurate press dispatches because the official text of the communique issued a few days ago stated specifically that there would be a meeting of the supreme war council to arrange for the redistribution of the forces now occur, where they have been resulted for the subject does not concern here in the subject does not concern here in the sightest, though, of course, Gen, Bliss attends all the meetings of the supreme war council, no matter what subject is under discussion. This has been customary throughout the war, but Gen, Bliss himself told me that on such matters as the redistribution of the forces inside Turkey he, of course, has nothing to say.

As for the opposition to possible combat of the proposition of the forces inside Turkey he, of course, has nothing to say.

"There was a no more beautiful country. There was a no more prosperous country. There was a no more presperous country. There was a no more free spirited people. All the world had admired France and none of the world grudged France her greatness and her prosperity. And it has profited us, terrible as the cost has been, to witness what has happened, to see with the physical eye what has happened because injustice was wrought.

"The president of the chamber has pictured as I cannot picture, the appalling sufferings, the terrible tragedy of France, but it is a tragedy which could not be repeated. As the pattern of history has disclosed itself, it has disclosed the hearts of men drawing toward one another. Comradeships have become vivid. The purpose of association has become evident.

ters as the redistribution of the forces inside Turkey he, of course, has nothing to say.

As for the opposition to possible commitments of the American people with reference to the assumption of responsibilities in future, through the mandatory rule, this is quite another thing, and the American mission has been making clear its belief that the American people will be unwilling to enter such obligations in advance and they had better be left free to decide every circumstance as it arises as to whether they care to accept or decline mandatory responsibilities. The debate in the United State senate recalls clearly how far out of touch the Washington senate and the Paris conference seem to be, while it is true the American mission has given very little information to gidde correspondents against such errors as evidently influenced the recent debate. Nevertheless, it is felt in many quarters that the senators might better have waited to see whether such action actually had been taken or was definitely intended before making a protest.

"When the soldiers of America crossed the ocean they did not bring with them merely their arms. They brought with them a very vivid conception of France. They landed upon the soil of France with quickened pulses. They knew that they had come to do a thing which the heart of America had long wished to do. When Gen. Pershing stood at the tomb of Lafayette and said Lafayette, we are here! it was as if he had said Lafayette, here is the completion of the great story whose first chapter you assisted to write. The world has seen the great plot worked out and now the people of France may rest assured that their prosperity is secure because their homes are secure: and men everywhere not only wish her safety and prosperity, but are ready to assure here that with all the force and wealth at their command they will guarantee her security and safety.

"So, as we sit from day to day at the Quai d'Orsay. I think to myself we might, if we could gain an audience of the free peoples of the world, adopt the language of Gen. Pershing and say. Friends, men, humble women, little children, we are here; we are here as your representatives. We have come to work out for you a world which is fit to live in and in which all countries can enjoy the heritage of liberty for which France and America and England and Italy have paid so dear. BROWNSVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 4. (Spil.)—The Methodist church in this city was crowded with relatives and friends on Sunday afternoon who gathered to pay their tribute of love and sympathy over the death of Miss Lillian Hood, one of Brownsville's most charming young women, who met death at the hands of a madman in Washington recently. The body arrived yesterday and was taken to the church, where she had worshiped since a child.

The casket was draped with a United States tiag and the pallbearers were young men in uniform who have served in the army.

The services were conducted by the Rev. W. A. Freeman and Rev. A. C. Bell, of Jackson.

The body was carried to Oakwood cemetery and laid to rest under a mound of beautiful floral offerings, many of which came from Washington with the body.

SHELBY COUNTY SENT OUT 15,000 SOLDIERS

Under instructions to complete their records at the earliest possible moment, Memphis draft boards are planning to end their troubles and tribulations by Feb. 15 and be ready to send more than 50,000 questionnaires and 2,500 different sets of figures to head-quarters.

Recent instructions to them, according to A. I. Williford, chairman of hoard No. 3, were that the boards rush to complete all reports that were requested and to prepare all data for shipment. Unless instructions come for further duties, the boards will be dissolved after that date.

Opening in August, 1917, the work of the boards has been unceremonicusty rushed to fill Uncle Sam's national army of democracy. Approximately 50,100 citizens of Shelby county between the ages of 18 and 45 have heen registered and their records filed. This has been done in four different registrations.

Squire Williford estimates about 7,000 men have been drafted by the seven local boards into the service, which, added to the approximate 8,000 volunters, means an army of Memphians of about 15,000.

HAIR GROWN ON MR. BRITTAIN'S BALD HEAD BY INDIANS' MYSTERIOUS HAIR GROWER

My head at the top and back was checlutely bald. The scalp was shiny. An expert said that as he thought the bair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth. Yet now, at an age over 66, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs.

Indians' Secret of Hair Growth

At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian 'medicine man' who had an elizir that he asseverated would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. From recent photo. To my anascement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and ere long my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days.

day, into a healthy growth, and ere long my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days.

That I was assonished and happy is expressing my state of mind mildly. Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dermant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious pomada.

I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious cilixir, now called Kotalko, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist.

That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved.

Many men and women, also children, have reported satisfactory results from Kotalko.

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

My honest belief is that hair roots rarely die even when the hair falls out through dandruff, fever, excessive dryness or other disorders. I have been told by experts that often when hair falls out the roots become imbedded within the scalp, covered by hard skin, so that they romain for a time like bulbs or seeds in a bottle which will grow when fertilized.
